members of a union? Did you noid a meeting?"

"No, sir; we belong to no union, and we didn't hold a meeting. We just passed the word and a delegation of five went up to Warren street to see General Manager Ryder. That was Wednesslay, and we only saw Mr. Ryder's assistant, Mr. Tetu, so we went again yesterday. Mr. Ryder wouldn't give us what we think is our right, and so we went ont yesterday and we re out to-day."

Manager Banks sat alone in his glory at 38 New street, and a big stack of messenger capstod the story of a desolated office. The manager said he was instructed to refer all inquirers to the main office, 33 Warren street.

This morning Manager Conroy, of District No. 4 office, at 10 Wall street, had naily wenty of his seventy boys at work, and he would not talk.

The boys struck sympathetically at this omca.

The big policeman on the New street post stampeded the assembled messengers, and the reporter was carried along in the vortex for a block. Out of danger from that copper, one of the boys from New street said:

"We want the plan of docking us stopped. As it is now, if we are off Monday we love $2.28 out of our pay. If we are off any other day we lose $1.44. Now we get only $7 cents to $1 cents a day, and if we don't work we lose from two to four days' pay, and that alu't right.

"Then we only get paid twice a month—

"We do not propose to concole snything to them."

"What will your downtown office do? You have about forty messengers to do the work of 150."

"Let people wait, I suppose. We will not grant them the increase, that is certain. They'll come base in a day or two.

If I bear was not't solitary applicant for a messenger cap and coat during the half bour at the reporters stay, for the young-sters of New lork have learned that the little of the District Messenger boy is not a happy one, with its petty fines for getting caught in a street-car blockade, itsee of pay through having a sick day, and other worriments.

While the reporter talkes with the manager, a round-faced little char, with curing faxen hair and great open blue eyes, entered with a note.

Mr. Tetu road it and then said: "Wait outside."

Mr. Tetu read it and then said: "Wait coticide."
"Ent, please, sir, I want my max."
"Fifth of Juna." was the answer. Then, as the boy, with a trandress in mis integree, atili saited, cap in hand. "That's ail.

A protest and petition for such hearing is said to have been signed by the theatre proprictors and managers referred to, but the Mayor has not received it as yet and has samed no day for a hearing. The protestants base their claim that the

Mayor should refuse to license the new Garden because stage scenery and apparatus are to be used in a building which is not constructed in conformity to the provisions of the Building law, chapter 566 of the

That act provides that a proscenium arch of brick must separate the stage from the auditorium, and in the case of the performanditorium, and in the case of the performance with which it is proposed to open the Garden June 10 the ballet speciacle is to be given in the arena—in the auditorium itself. The theatres the managers and proprietors of which do not protest are: the Windsor, Third Avenue, New Park, Proctor's, Grand Opera-House, Casino, Tony Pastor's, Harry Kennedy's and Daly's, Similar protests to that sent the Mayor have been forwarded to the Fire Commissioners and Superintendent of Buildings Brady, who must certify that the buildings before the Mayor can issue a license.

It is understool that the Fire Commissioners' certificate will not be withheld or that the Mayor will license the new Garden.

The theatre in the building is said to be built in strict compliance with the provisions of the statute, and Manager T.
